“Just teach the basic principles. The many different strategies are confusing the kids. If the kids fail to get it in the mail strategy, then teach them the new one. Also, on a side note, not sure why I pay all the lunch supervision fees when my kids always come home with a full lunch kit and saying they were too busy to eat. For $600, I expect more.”

“a large part of student learning is building a school community. Overall; this feeling of community is lacking in. our school. Having one school winter concert with families getting shuffled in and out of the gym and not together is one example of lack of community.”

“I don’t see anything focused on enhancing the learning of the best students. It seems to be all about assisting the weakest students. Our son says he spends a lot of time finding his own things to do because he is always done his work early. And way too much focus on Truth and Reconciliation. I appreciate these are important to cover, but it seems to take up a lot of space in the plan that could be focused on core subject and excellence.”
